THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

Next to the Selective Service Act, which drafted able young men to fight for this nation's survival in the late war, we think the OPA and its various adjuncts has perhaps been the hardest thing Americans have had to bear. In principle we believe that it was and is not only necessary but vital to our survival in a chaotic world of fluxuating currencies and disrupted trade. But in practice, those chosen to make OPA work, the poor human agents, and poor and weakly they have been, have failed miserably in the administration of price control measures.

Take for instance rent control. The OPA officers will not tell a man how much rent he charge, but tell him to go ahead and rent his flat, apartment or house. After he has rented it and the tenant has moved in, the OPA then decides what rent he can charge. If the rent is one figure, say $60 per month, the OPA cuts it by 10, 20 or 25 per cent. There is no known instance in which the OPA approved the rent agreed upon between landlord and tenant in the first instance. That is, no known instance in this part of the state. The landlord, might if he chose, let a house to a favored tenant at away below current rentals, but it is hardly conceivable the OPA would raise the rental in justice to all other tenants, or for a moment would consider the interest of the landlord and raise the rental to its fair value.

If our OPA officials had been hexed from hildhood we doubt if they could have made more of devil's brew of the building and construction business than they have. It takes a long time for news of OPA's catastrophic mistakes to reach congress, but at last congress has learned that vast quantities of lumber are being exported to avoid price controls in the U. S. A. and is, now, months late, trying to do something about it. The thing to do of course is to promptly embargo the shipment of lumber, with special state department exceptions if need be, but forbidding higher prices on export than those charged in the domestic trade.

Take our case in Nevada County. We are, so to speak submerged in lumber, but the housing shortage here, is just as acute in relation to the population as it is in San Francisco. Even our veterans which the whole nation wishes to honor and specially provide for are forced to live with their in-laws or in any hole in the wall that offers shelter. OPA has been blind apparently to what any building contractor could see a year ago.

The conclusion we are bound to reach is that the OPA from top to bottom is staffed with intellectual derelicts, drifters, congenital bureaucrats, born pea-sized like kangaroo offspring, and clinging like woodticks to the maternal teats in the warm furlined pouch of government largess. The only comfort we can take in this situation is the same comfort we give a dog. Fighting fleas keeps him healthy.

However, the thing we plead for is not the abilition of OPA. It is merely that President Truman, between yachting trips on the Potomac, take a good square look at the whole setup and then go after it with a stable broom. For the alternative to an OPA, we think is nothing more or less than absolute chaos, a ruinous inflation which will wreak terrific hardships on just about nine tenths of our own population and the rest of the world. We are not quarreling with the OPA principle but we are beginning to feel vengeful about OPA practices. We need price control, God knows, but not the kind we are getting.

This business of exporting lumber at $7.50 per thousand board feet, more than the OPA price ceiling here at home, reeks of corruption to a mind as suspicious as this mind is. Who are the favored lads who get this bonus? We haven't the slightest idea, but we are morally certain somebody, some psalm singing patrioteer, has sold our veterans and the rest of us down the river.

Byrne is president of the Veterans Cab Company which is seeking a permit to operate a fleet of taxicabs in San Francisco. Application for a permit by 34 veterans to operate the veterans cab company will come up before the police commission for hearing next Monday in San Francisco.

In Los Angeles Dave Wolzinger a world war I veteran and his son Captain M. B. Wolzinger world war II pilot are seeking a permit from the California railroad commission to operate a fleet of streamlined buses between Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland at a fare of one cent a mile. The Wolzingers now operate the Pony Express stages between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles. Almost everyone identified with the Pony Express stages is a world war veteran.

The Wolzingers who want to operate along the coast route estimate that they an employ more than 200 world war veterans if the railroad commission will grant them a permit.

VFW official Byrne has called up on the general public to get behind veterans who seek to enter the transportation business. Competition he said will bring about reduced fares and better service.

In San Francisco Byrne said the 34 war veterans who organized the veterans cab company are determined to break the cab monopoly now held by the Yellow cab company.

Byrne added that he was pleased to learn that Pony Express would give war veterans job preference. He pointed out that unemployment among veterans has become a critical problem in California.

In an announcement made at U. S. forest service headquarters here, Miss Pearl Chase of Santa Barbara president of the California conservation council declared "the annual program calls attention to the real need for conservation education and for participation in conservation activities."

The conservation council which has been sponsoring the week since 1935 in cooperation with federal the state and private natural resource agencies has the spirited assistance of 5000 individual conservationists throughout California.

The council cites a series of successful year long programs for stimulating conservation education and practices directed toward serving the interests of the state and nation. In doing so the organization adopted the unique policy of neither proposing nor endorsing legislation and found that the plan brought many divergent groups into closer harmony.

The opening day's observance of conservation week will be on Caliornia bird and arbor day next Thursday. At that time school and organized group programs also will honor the birthday anniversary of Luther Burbank world famous botanist.

Other conservations topics for study during the week include forest fire prevention, protection of recreation areas, community resource preservation, soil conservation, prevention of waste in food and fibre, water resource management and natural resources development.

Governor E. C. Warren is honorary chairman of the conservation week committee and Prof. Woodbridge Metcalf of the University of California is general chairman.

WHAT THE COLUMNISTS SAY

It is time for the American people to direct their concentrated attention to congress. Congress consists of citizens sent to Washington by communities to frame the laws of the country. These men are charged with the duty of conducting national affairs with efficiency, intelligence, order and dispatch.

That is all they are there for.

The fact is that it has grown into a fumbling disorganized conglomeration, operating under such an accumulated crust of rules and privileges that it is incompetent to perform its functions.

SCIENCE AND FREEDOM—Marquis Childs

Some of us, it happens, had ancestors who came to America in the 17th century. But I cannot believe their motives were very different from immigrants who came 20 years ago.

If the lesson of America has been forgotten, what happened in the war just ended should have served to remind us that knowledge and greatness cannot be confined by race and creed. Hitler and Fiscism drove out of Europe some of Europe's greatest scientists.

Enrico of Italy, Niles Bohr of Denmark and many others come here to work on the atom bomb. We speak of the discvery of atomic fission as an American triumph. In reality, it was international achievement—the achievement of peoples of every race working in free America.

ATOM CONTROL—Joseph and Stewart Aslop

Specifically according to the scientists, all existing atomic bombs should be either destroyed or transferred to the control of the military staff of the UNO. The immense plants in the United States should be either destroyed or dismantled and placed in dismantled condition at the disposal of a new world authority.

This world atomic energy authority established under the UNO would be charged with carrying on mining of all ore containing fissionable material with all processing and production of fissionable material from the pithead to the moment of fission.

DISASTER AVERTED—Walter Lippman

What we decided we wanted is a political unification of China so that there might be no civil war in which China would become a gigantic Spain, the Russians backing one faction and we the other. It would have been only too easy to drift, to be pushed and pulled into a horrible mess. The administration deserves the highest credit for seeing the danger clearly and of acting swiftly, skillfully and sincerely to prevent it.

It is not I think too soon to say that they have prevented it. For while there is as yet no certainty that China is out of the woods it looks very much as if the United States were.

EFFECT ON WORLD—Dorothy Thompson

The American strikes are not a purely American affair either. The world is starving for food and goods. The planet has been devastated by war. Homes, industrial plants and communications have been destroyed, consumers goods of the most primitive and essential sort are lacking over areas inhabited by millions. In Europe and Asia wide areas are threatened by famine.

All the world looks to the United States and its fantastic capacities. Commitments have been given and upon our fulfillment of them depends the success of our political policies—for instance in Latin America. Upon the success of our political policies depends peace—both international peace and the quenching of incipient civil wars.

PROGRESS AT UNO—Degar Ansel Mowrer

Unanimous accceptance of the resolution setting up a 12 country commission on atomics is a real achievement in the most important field this assembly is working in. Practically this commission has to try to solve just one problem—how to save mankind from the scourge of atomic war. Naturally it should also study the exchange of scientific information and the peaceful uses of atomicc energy. But unless it manages to provide some formula for preventing atomic slaughter, life on this planet will become in the words of British plisipher Hobbes, "nasty, brutish and short."

CONGRESS IN REVOLT—Thomas L. Stokes

The most interesting phenomenon in Washington is the current revolution in congress against the administration. The revolt grows rather than diminishes.

It is most pronounced in the house which is supposed to be closest to the people.

It raises several questions. Is the country really becoming conservative? Does the hostility of congress represent irritation as a reaction from war? Or does it represent confusion in itself and among the people? Or a bit of all three?

Or is congress in its present mood not really representative of the people?

LET'S HOPE IT ISN'T HABIT-FORMING

L. E. Sleeman Tells Of Dairy Subsidies

Dairy production payments will be continued through June 30 with the rate for April, May and June production the same as for the corresponding months last year, according to information received by L. E. Sleeman chairman of the Nevada County Agricultural Conservation Committee from Dave Davidson, state director of the field service branch, production and marketing administration.

Whole milk rates for eight southern California counties serving the Los Angeles milkshed — Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Diego, San Benrardino, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties—are 85 per cent hundredweight for April and 45 cents per hundredweight during May and June.

For all other counties of the state the whole milk rate is 70 cents per hundredweight for April and 35 cts. per hundredweight through May and June.

Butterfat rates for all counties of the state are 17 cents per pound for April and 10 cents per pound through May and June.

In announcing the continuation through the second quarter of the year the production and marketing administration states that payments are subject to revision or termination in the event there should be any general increases in price ceilings for milk and its products.

As previously announced the dairy payment program will end next June 30 Sleeman pointed out unless new legislation is enacted by congress to continue it into the new fiscal year.

Northeast storm warnings displayed by the U. S. Weather Bureau consist of a red pennant above a square red flag with black center displayed by day or two red lanterns one above the other, displayed by night.

War Increases Seaweed Crop

LA JOLLA, March 4—World War II stimulated interest among some of the United Nations in developing greater seaweed resources according to Dr. C. K. Tseng of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography.

The principal stimulus in most instances he points out has been the agar shortage. In 1940 the United States had a single agar factory which produced 24,000 pounds. Today there are four factories actively engaged in this industry with a combined production of 200,000 pounds.

Agar says Dr. Tseng is still the undisputed material for preparing solid bacteriological culture media and is extensively employed in bakery products, health food and dental impression materials.

Another important derivative from seaweed is algin which is most valuable as an ice cream stabilizer regarded by dairy experts the equal of gelatin. Four companies in the United States are making algin and two million pounds or alginous products are being produced annually.

A third important seaweed product is carrageen or Irish moss extract now the standard suspending agent for cocoa particles in chocolate milk preparations. Three companies are producing 500,000 lbs. of the extract and many others processing carrageen.

The increasing interest in seaweed will certainly lead to more research activities in the studies of these products and their sources from biological, chemical and technological points of view.

Urges Evolution Not Revolution For Indonesia

BERKELEY, March 4 — In the crisis over Indonesian independence Americans may allow their democratic sympathies to lead them to too simple conclusions in a complex problem.

Dr. Broeck an expert on Indonesia who held advisory posts with the government on Indonesia during the war said it would be a mistake to draw a parallel between the present Indonesian movement and the American fight for independence in the Revolutionary war.

Independence for Indonesia now would not mean freedom and democracy. The cultural, political and economic level has been raised considerably during Dutch rule but it has not yet reached the point where a democracy such as we know it would be workable. The Indonesions will certainly have and should have independence eventnally, if they desire but much can be said or the gradual evolutionary process.

Dr. Broeck drew a parallel between Dutch rule in Java and Roman rule in western Europe noting that the subject peoples adopted the conqueror's culture and eventually inherited world leadership.

He added that while the Dutch have profited from their rule in Indonesia the native population also has benefited.

Young Ewes Imported From New Zealand

DAVIS, March 4—A partial solution to the problem of crossing New Zealand and American sheep breeds appear to have been found with the arrival of lambs on time from the group of sheep imported by the University of California to Davis.

Previous importations of two year old ewes proved unsatisfactory because of the inversion of the breeding season opposite in the northern and southern hemispheres. The university import of yearling ewes appears to have avoided the problem.

This opens the way for the experiment of crossing the New Zealand breeds, excellent wool producers with the Rambouillet which has a high growth rate good size and fine body conformation according to J. F. Wilson professor of animal husbandry on the Davis campus of the university. The work is being done with funds from the W. K. Kellogg foundation.

PER CAPITA INCOME DROPS

California's civilian per capita income for 1945 was $1415 with residents receiving a total of $11,492-100,000 according to unofficial preliminary estimates released today by the research department of the California state chamber of commerce.

The estimated 1945 per capita income in under the $1540 California civilian per capita income for 1944. It is still well above the 1944 national per capita of $117 and California's per capita income of $737 in 1939.

Decline in intensive wartime manufacture with high wages and heavy overtime accounted for most of the disparity between the state's 1945 civilian income total and the $12,-263,400,000 total for 1944 all time high in the state's income history. Compared with California's 1939 civilian income total of $5,013,000,000 the 1945 preliminary figures indicate a gain of over 129 per cent the state chamber survey shows.

Heavy influx of population during the war period accounted for part of California's income increase. Major factor was due to higher incomes. Continued civilian population growth is indicated in the figures as are the arrivals of demobilized service personnel returning or imigrating to the state.

Salaries and wages including agricultural activities account for $7,-699,700,000 or 67 per cent of California's estimated 1945 total individual income. The same classification totalled $3,015,700,000 of the 1939 income. Proprietors income net profits withdrawn for personal use by the proprietors and partners in non corporate enterprises rose from $750,200,000 in 1939 to $1,838,-800,000 last year according to the state chamber estimates. Dividends, interest, net rentals and royalties are estimated at $1,264,100,000 for 1945. Other 1945 income sources are estimated at $689,500,000. This category includes pensions, direct relief, compensation for injuries, social insurance benefits, allotments and allowances paid dependents of military personnel and in 1944 - 1945 mustering out pay to veterans.

Salaries and wages accounted for 60 per cent of the state income. As the war program accelerated salaries and wages rose to 67 per cent of the total. Decrease of shipbuilding and aircraft manufacturing employment starting in the fall of 1943 dropper the salary and wage percentage. The drop was sharply increased by cancellations following VJ day.

Victim Of Auto Accident Recovering

Mrs. Emma L. Rice, who survived an automobile accident Tuesday night while enroute to Auburn, which proved fatal to her husband, William E. Rice, was reported yesterday as not in a critical condition. Her physician states, however, that she probably will remain in the hospital for three months.

Mrs. Rice suffered a fractured leg spinal injuries, severe lacerations and bruises. The car in which she and her husband were returning to their home in Auburn ran off the bank, below the Red Hat Service Station. She attributed the cause to the blinding light of an approaching car. Her husband died shortly after he had been brought to a local hospital.

$400,000,000 Five-Year Expansion Program

Excerpts from the 1945 Annual Report

"ALTHOUGH it experienced an exceptional growth throughout the war years, our company did not profit from the war. The tabulation . . . comparing the year 1945—the end of the route to Tokyo Bay—with 1939—the year in which ominous war clouds cast their impending gloom—vividly portrays, not only what our company's expansion has been throughout the years of its war effort, but also the impact of this expansion on its major operations.

"The phenomenal development of the Pacific Coast with its tremendous strides in commerce, industry, military and naval activities has placed, and will continue to place, exacting demands upon our company. With the nation-wide interest in this far-flung section with its rapidly expanding markets and its outstanding growth potentialities, our company will experience in the immediate years ahead, as they are now visualized, an unprecedented expansion.

"Our immediate task ahead is to render service to all who want it and to restore and to take our service to new heights. As it announced December last, in the immediate five-year period our company will be required to make expenditures for new construction aggregating $400,000,000 and, as a consequence, extraordinary amounts of new capital will be required. The execution and speed of this entire program are dependent upon the flow of available manpower, materials, money and the level of business conditions. The consummation of the program for 1946, now well under way, will require, it is estimated, an all-time high expenditure of upwards of $90,000,-000 for new construction. This compares with the $35,800,000 expended in 1945. Inclusive of materials re-used, the gross plant additions for 1946 are estimated at well over $100,000,000. This expenditure will be more than double the 1945 gross plant additions of $48,791,000.

"To do all the things we have in mind will take men, materials and money. Our program will offer employment opportunities to many men and women not only in the manufacture, construction and installation of the added plant, but also in the maintenance and operation of a continuously improving and expanding service. Our vast undertaking will require for its accomplishment earnings that are sufficient to attract the huge sums of new capital needed. Expressing as it does a fundamental significance to every city, town, village and hamlet throughout the Pacific Coast, the consummation of our unprecedented program will result in increasing the plant investment of our company by almost 50 per cent, bringing its total plant investment to an amount aggregating upwards of a billion dollars.

"The era of tremendous expansion that our company has now entered places responsibilities of the first magnitude upon our management. We go forward with a firm faith that a telephone service rendered well will continue to be well received. In our company's following out its established policy—to furnish the best possible service; to render the service as economically as possible; to charge for the service only an amount to keep our company financially vigorous—it is of vital importance that its earnings be such that they will continue to attract the necessary amounts of new capital needed to accomplish these objectives. Earnings that are adequate are in the public interest, because earnings that are less than adequate necessarily jeopardize the efficiency and the scope of the service. Thus, our company and the public it serves have a common interest. In full recognition of that interest, the charges for the service rendered should reflect a fair treatment policy expressed in rates which, at all times, will be such that sound economic considerations will prevail in the interest of all parties—the patrons, the employees and the investors.

"A successful nation is a prosperous nation. In order to increase and to sustain the production which is vital to that prosperity, business and industry must, of necessity, prosper as must their personnel who, through the dedication of individual effort, contribute to the forward march of America. This fundamental concept, the recognition of the dignity and worth of the individual and the value of free enterprise, with equal opportunity for all—the American way of life—has produced the highest standard of living among all peoples. Progress has been the measure of the welfare of our great Nation—it will be the earnest endeavor of our company, as it has been in the past, to render a communication service, which through its scope, efficiency and dependability, will continue to make its full contribution to that progress."

R R Bowley
President.

AMERICANS ARE WILLING TO AID STARVING WORLD

By Zoe Fales

President Truman has announced that food shipments to other nations of the world are going to be increased and if necessary meat rationing resumed here.

There was apparently feeling in Washington that an announcement of this kind would be a bombshell to the American people and would be bitterly resented and resisted. The pros and cons and if and buts seem to have been weighed with the utmost political caution before the shocking news was capsuled for public consumption. Which can only suggest that the present administration might get a lot of sound pulse feelers if it could enlist the services of citizens able to inspire honest confidence and give warm understanding to the millions of Americans who don't retain paid spokesmen in Washington.

It was this kind of service that Mrs. Roosevelt did the country during the administration of the late president and to which can be attributed much of Roosevelt's intimate understanding of the wishes and aspirations and ideals of most Americans.

Americans everywhere reacted spontaneously to Truman's food export proposals: "It's about time". And if they talked with their neighbors about it they found their feelings echoed. There was a feeling of relief a feeling of conscience being eased. Because despite all the war time gags about rationing all the talk all the words of complaint there was no real resistance by Americans to any rationing that was demonstrably necessary. There was only resistance to red tape to the occasional blunders by local boards occasional rulings that seemed unreasonable to the man on the receiving end.

Rationing always made a good conversation piece because like taxation there was a universal quality about it. Every one had his own little grievances and little triumphs he could tell. There was a certain smartness in speaking scornfully of it because Americans are scornful by tradition of any government activity that touches them intimately. But underneath the smartness there was good American pride that those of us who couldn't fight the war could at least get a feeling of participation by doing without the little luxuries that were proscribed.

So when almost coincidentally with the end of the war rationing was lifted most Americans were more shocked than pleased. They began to buy more meat and more butter and more shoes but they couldn't quite see how come. It didn't take a career diplomat to see that hunger was ram pant in the rest of the world. It didn't take an elder statesman to know that hungry people are not apt to be reasonable people or peaceful people. And it didn't take a congressional committee on globe girdling junket to find out that an America gorging itself on relative surpluses could not expect the friendship and respect and trust of the hungry and the cold on the outside looking in.

If Washington was astonished that more brickbats didn't come that way when it was suggested that Americans put the good neighbor policy to practice by checking world wide starvation it can now let its eyebrows settle and get on with the business of shipping the food. Americans can be counted on to support the policy and the action.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President--Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Squads Right

Loyal military experts want every precaution taken in America to prevent another such calamity as Pearl Harbor. The nation as a whole subscribes to that policy. The shout for universal military training is itself an hysterical cry for more national safety, but it is ill-considered. Being a school man, knowing the possibilities of youth, I know it is unwise.

I am in favor of an adequate standing army, a powerful peacetime navy and all the other factors of a positive national defense. I am willing to let men of proven generalship say how big an army is adequate and how much navy is ample. Those are matters that few civilians are qualified to discuss. But however big the need is, America should have no less.

Least Costly Way

I am in favor of advancing the base pay of enlisted personnel to an attractive level; sufficiently high to get enough men in service by voluntary enlistment. My reasons are three: (1) It would save the country money, (2) It would provide a better fighting force and (3) It would cause the least disturbance to economic, scientific and cultural progress of the nation.

Cramming a year of military training into the life pattern of every American boy when he turns 18 or finishes high school, would be an undertaking of fabulous cost, needless cost. Most of the youngsters could never use what they learned (principally squads right) and many of them, if distorted into soldiers, would make miserably poor ones at best.

No Misfit's Job

There is no place in the American armed services for a misfit, however sternly trained. The most routine army post is filled better by a willing soldier. Furthermore, war is growing yearly more technical. It requires more knowledge than a reluctant trainee can acquire in a year. When a man does acquire useful skill in defense, he deserves to be retained and paid well.

Without any shade of disrespect to America's fighting men and their singular resourcefulness and heroism, World War II was won in laboratory, field and factory as certainly as on the firing line. A lot of young men who would be misfits in any fighting force will be the technicians of tomorrow, and they can't spare a year of preparation to learn foot drill.

One Basic Error

I know that a great many smart people are in favor of universal military training, and for honorable reasons. But I have another serious objection to it in addition to the ones presented above. Universal military training is regimentation of the whole nation, in a limited way. It is the opening wedge with which the few can show the many who's boss.

Suspicion may well be leveled at the Naziferous notion of compulsory military training. It sounds like a defense measure but it is not. The first effect of it would be to interrupt the training of technicians and, since modern warfare is technical, it would actually cripple national defense. By carefully selecting volunteers and paying them well, Uncle Sam can have a better fighting force at less cost in money and with less confusion.

TRIPS TO MEXICO NOT ADVISABLE

Discomforts and inconveniences involved in Mexican travel at the present time are such that motorists planning a tour south of the border are advised to postpone their trips until conditions improve.

This warning was issued today by the California state automobile association on the basis of first hand investigation of conditions following many complaints concerning travel conditions in Mexico. The investigation brought out the following facts.

Accommodations are exceedingly scarce just as they are in the United States. Rates are the same as they are in the states.

Tires are hard to obtain although they can be had through black markets at $100 each.

Gasoline is scarce due to the recent railroad strike. Motorists should carry extra gasoline in five and ten gallon cans for emergencies and keep filled up in the larger cities where supplies are easier to obtain.

Visitors must be prepared to undergo some discomforts and inconveniences and occasionally extra expense until the supply of accommodations and tires catches up with demand and until the distribution of gasoline is again normal.

Because of these reasons only those willing to endure some inconveniences and discomforts should drive to Mexico at present.

SHIP BATTLE COLORS WILL BE EXHIBITED

The navy department recently revealed the inauguration of a plan to present the battle colors of various ships to the localities for which they were named.

In the case or battleships which are named after states the flags will be made available for use in shrines or at state buildings. Aircraft carriers are named after historic battles; cruisers are named for cities and the destroyers honor famous men. In the case of destroyers, the battle colors will be made available to the home towns or birthplaces of the men for whom they were named.

Battle colors for navy transports named after counties may be obtained by the county seat of the county used as a namesake.

Communities or historic organizations interest in obtaining these battle colors should address their requests to the officer in charge 12th naval district, public information office 83 McAllister St., San Francisco 2, California and the requests will be forwarded to the navy department.

WASHINGTON NOTES

By Congressman Claire Engle

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — Los Angeles Land Grab—District Attorney Walter Evans and Supervisor Gene Crosby of Mono County are both here in Washington in connnection with the effort of the city of Los Angeles to take over approximately 24,000 acres of land in Mono county. The city claims it needs the land to protect its water supply. We have held conferences with all of the interest government officials and yesterday district attorney Evans made a very impressive statement before a subcommittee of the comduced to repeal the law under which jurisdiction of the bill I have introduced to repeal the low under which Los Angeles is authorized to purchase lands in Mono county at $1.25 an acre. This law slipped through congress in 1936 without any knowledge on the part of the people of Mono county. The position of Mono county can be simply stated: Los Angeles doesn't need the lands in order to protect its existing investments and water rights and the acquisition of the lands will substantially impair the permanent develop̈ment of Mono county.

Shasta Steel Pilot Plant—A ceremony dedicating the Shasta steel pilot plant will be held on March 14. I have been asked to attend and hope to be able to do so. The importance of this steel pilot plant to the economy of northern California and all the west cannot be overestimated. Here the bureau of mines intends to test the economics of combining the various minerals and metals of the west and we hope to lay the foundation of an alloy industry built around Shasta power. It is small pilot plants of this character which lay the foundation for vast industrial development. Last spring appropriations committee struck out the money for the pilot plant but by a very vigorous effort we were able to salvage it. We are therefore doubly happy to see the day of dedication definitely set.

Veterans Hospitals—The American Legion from California is here in force in regard to the shortage of beds for veterans in California. They point out that some 7000 beds will be needed and that no new construction was made available for California this year under the recent program. It is hard to understand this failure to recognize the serious conditions in California in veterans hospitalization. We have continuously urged the veterans administration to take over DeWitt hospital at Auburn if not on a permanent basis at least on a temporary basis, to meet the desperate shortage. While the legion representatives are here we expect to renew our efforts along that line with General Halsey the head of the medical department and Gen. Bradley the administrator. Incidentally the legion representatves are frankly critical of the veterans administration and seem to side wholeheartedly with their national commander in the recent quarrel with Gen. Bradley.

Surplus For Veterans— A good many inquiries and complaints have come in from veterans in regard to their inability to get priority in the purchase of government surpluses for their personal use. At the present time the surplus property act does not give veterans preference in the purchase of surpluses of this type. They are given preferences in setting up farming or small business enteprises, but even these preferences come behind federal, state and other governmental priorities. The house committee on executive expenditures is now restudying the whole surplus property act and one of the matters which is being considered is giving veterans preference on property for their personal use and in addition giving them preference ahead of all agencies except the federal government. The surplus property disposal has been in a constant muddle and we are in hopes the committee will amond the present surplus property disposal act in such a way as to clear up these difficulties.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Jess Turner's labor troubles

For four years Jess Turner ran his harness shop alone. But now his nephew's discharged from the Navy and is back to help him.

Right away, it seems that nephew Delbert has some new ideas. He wants more money, shorter hours—and meanwhile Jess' expenses have been going up!

So what does Jess do? He invites Delbert to sit down over a friendly glass of beer and talk the situation over. Jess figures how he can give Delbert some extra dollars, and certain interests in the business; and Delbert figures how he can speed up production on harnesses—and do some saddle work, besides. And they seal the bargain with another friendly glass of beer.

Of course, all labor troubles aren't so simple. But from where I sit, if there could be more friendly discussion — more give and take—more tolerance and understanding—both sides would be a heap better off.
